Nutrition & nurture

Making a lifestyle change can be tough. Some can accomplish goals on their own, but many need a stronger push. Having a mentor by your side can make all the difference.

Our 'Distributor Difference'

We are the full package! With products only available to buy from our Independent Members, it means you are also invested in their expertise. Whether you want to improve fitness or manage weight, the personal connection with your distributor will provide a clear direction and tailored plan to achieve your wellness goal, as well as offer social support, motivation, encouragement, and accountability.

This extra one-to-one, high-touch approach is what differentiates Herbalife from other nutrition companies.

There's a reason Herbalife is classed as the #1 brand in the world in weight management and wellbeing.

Our products are designed by science to support personal health and nutrition goals, along with our Herbalife24 brand specifically developed to support the nutritional needs of athletes, gym-goers and fitness enthusiasts.

Highest quality ingredients

We use only the finest quality ingredients from farmers who lead the charge in their high standards for planting and conservation. After all, quality ingredients produce premium products trusted by our customers. Our products, manufacturing, and business model have received numerous international awards, gold-stamping our high-quality standards.

ISO 17025 certifies the technical capability of labs and consistency in results.

The Herbalife24® products are batchtested for prohibited substances by an independent third party. For more information, please see the product label.

Backed by science

World-class experts

Our products are backed by science and a global network of over 300 experts and doctors in nutrition, science and health who ensure quality and stringent compliance with government regulations. Guided by research, driven by quality, with no compromises, we deliver excellence on every level.

Tried and tested

Test, retest, and test again - that's what we do! Internally and through third party certifying organisations, we get validation that our products are best in class.

Our dedication to innovation and science has made it possible for our products to be awarded across the world.

Great products grow from great ingredients

At Herbalife, we guarantee the highest quality products by following our in-house "from seed to feed" production and quality assurance process.

We invest in responsible cultivation methods and our team of worldwide dedicated scientists and producers are committed to sourcing the best raw materials. Every ingredient goes through in-house analysis to ensure it meets strict specifications. From tea farms in China and aloe farms in Mexico to soybean farms in the U.S., we use the finest ingredients to develop outstanding products.

Every effort is made to ensure that Herbalife products meet or exceed our own quality standards and the standards of our industry. The purity and nutritional value of each ingredient is without question as is the integrity of the processes we follow.

Tomato and mushroom-flavoured salsa toast

Preparation time: 10 minutes
Cooking time: 5 minutes

Ingredients for 1 serving

2 scoops (26g) F1 Savoury

300g fresh tomatoes, roughly chopped

- 1 garlic clove, finely chopped
- 1 (50g) red onion, finely sliced
- 1 red chilli, sliced
- 2 tbsp each of chopped fresh coriander, mint and basil, plus extra to garnish
- 2 limes
- 50ml water
- 2 slices (60g) Wholemeal bread

Step 1 Mix together the tomatoes, garlic, red onion, chilli and herbs in a large bowl. Season with black pepper and mix thoroughly. Allow to stand for 5 minutes

Step 2 Zest the limes into a bowl, then add the juice and mix in the F1 Savoury and 50ml of cold water thoroughly. Mix the F1 Savoury mixture into salsa, then toast the bread and cut into triangles. Serve the salsa with the extra herbs to garnish and the toast.

A vegan diet calls for careful meal planning to ensure all recommended daily nutrients are in the mix. Taking supplements for protein, vitamins and minerals can help fill any gaps.

Plan ahead to get ahead

When adopting a vegan diet you need to make up proteins and essential amino acids readily available in meat, as well as Vitamin D and calcium normally obtained from dairy.

Protein can be found in plant foods such as beans, lentils, whole grains and soy-based tofu. However, unlike most animal proteins, so called "complete" because they contain all nine essential amino acids, most plant foods lack one or more (except for soybeans). So consuming a wider variety of foods is essential. For example, the essential amino acid lacking in beans, peas and lentils is abundant in whole grains. And, conveniently, what grains lack, the beans can provide.

It can help to use plant protein powders, such as our Protein Drink Mix-Vegan (p21). Made from soy protein, it will help supplement intake for relatively few calories and these protein powders are easy to add to shakes, soups and bakes.

Our delicious Tri Blend Select (p31), made from pea protein, flaxseed and quinoa also delivers a protein packed shake in banana and coffee caramel flavours.

If you're on a vegan diet, care should be taken to also supplement calcium, vitamin D, iron, zinc, and vitamin B12 to ensure essential nutrient needs are covered.

See vitamins and minerals (p48-49).

Balancing protein

and why it's important

As protein serves so many important bodily functions, it's crucial you get your daily intake right, based on your weight and muscle mass. Protein is a macronutrient made up of 21 'building blocks' called amino acids, which support muscle mass growth, and muscle and bone maintenance.

The right balance

The most accurate method to calculate protein requirement is with your lean body mass (weight without fat content), but you can just use your overall body weight as a guide. The calculation using body weight in kg, is to multiply that weight by 1.5 and this gives a reasonable target for your daily protein intake in grams. So, someone who weighs 64kg should aim for about 100g of protein a day.

Protein sources

Soy is one of the best vegetable sources as it is a 'complete protein' providing all 9 essential amino acids. Others are nuts, seeds and lentils but as 'incomplete proteins', you'll need to include varied sources to garner the benefits that each provides. You can be confident when using our range of healthy shakes, that they contain the complete proteins needed to support your nutritional needs.

Upping your protein

As a rough guide, common sources of protein food contain around 25 g of protein and protein snacks (e.g. Herbalife Nutrition Protein Bars) contain around 10 g. If you need to up your protein, meal replacement or protein shakes can bridge that gap, and be tailored to your personal needs. Look at Formula 1 Healthy Meal, Formula 1 Savoury Meal or Tri Blend Select and Protein Drink Mix Vegan for vegan friendly options.

When was the last time you had a really good night's sleep?

Sleep is so important for your physical and mental wellbeing as it supports brain function, mood, and your overall health. If like many others, you struggle to quieten your mind, making the move to incorporate these steps into your daily routine to encourage a full night's sleep, will really pay off.

Eat mindfully

Stopping eating at least three hours before bedtime allows for proper digestion and helps avoid heartburn that can keep you awake.

Make exercise the norm

We know exercise has numerous health benefits, but it also helps your body relax into sleep, releasing endorphins that make you feel good, naturally. Try low-intensity workouts such as yoga, Pilates, or a relaxing walk in the early evening hours.

Prepare for rest

Follow the digital detox rule of no computers or digital readers at least one hour before bedtime – that includes TV too!

De-stress with relaxation techniques

The evening is a good time to perform relaxation techniques. Build in some head space to let your mind and body unwind with deep breathing, relaxing stretches and meditation.

Keep a schedule

Life can get in the way of maintaining a healthy sleep pattern - try and make the effort to go to sleep and wake up at the same time each day to develop a sleep routine.

Enjoy a night-time drink

Try Herbalife Night Mode, a chamomile and peach flavoured drink with saffron extract and vitamins (Riboflavin and B6) while you enjoy a few moments of headspace.

Discover your dream sleep

Herbalife Night Mode

A calming night-time drink infused with saffron extract, scientifically shown to improve sleep quality in 7 days*. Saffron extract helps to reduce insomnia, it can also improve your mood after awakening and increase melatonin which supports your sleep/wake cycle.

Vital for well-being, a proper night's sleep allows our bodies to recover, repair and regenerate, while enhancing our mental clarity and emotional balance, so enhancing mood, energy levels and focus.

Night Mode also contains a blend of vitamins to help support normal psychological and nervous system function.

So, optimise your sleep by including Night Mode into your night-time wind-down. Sit back, relax and savour the subtle flavour of Chamomile and Peach.

Fine tune your diet

Vitamins and minerals are key micronutrients essential for many everyday chemical reactions performed by your body.

While a balanced diet is the best way of obtaining these nutrients, it's not always manageable to ensure our food contains the necessary levels. Taking vitamin and mineral supplements is a convenient way to keep up with your recommended daily amount.

Saturated is bad. Polyunsaturated is good... It's a little more complex than that.

Today, we know it's more about achieving fat balance, especially between omega-3 and omega-6 polyunsaturated fats. The right amount (250 mg daily) of omega-3 fatty acids, EPA and DHA, contribute to the maintenance of normal vision and brain function, and also contribute to the normal function of the heart.

The western diet

The typical western diet provides an excess of total and saturated fat, without enough of the healthy kind, such as fats from fish, nuts, olive oil and avocados.

As a concentrated source of calories, Herbalife's Philosophy recommends limiting your fat intake to no more than 30% of your daily calories. Fish oil is linked to brain health, so aim to eat two portions of fatty fish, such as sardines, salmon, or trout, weekly.

The long-chain omega-3 fatty acids (EPA and DHA) found in fish, is not efficiently produced by the body, so we need them from food. It also helps to support heart health. Not fussed on fish? Then a dietary supplement can help.

The idea of consuming bacteria is not appealing until you appreciate the benefits and how easy it is to supplement them in your diet!

What you eat plays such a crucial part in looking after the health of your gut and its resident micro flora which work together to help your two brains work symbiotically together. That's right, we have a 'second brain' -our complex digestive system, which sends and receives information to and from our 'first brain' and using it to regulate the digestive function. Prebiotics are high fibre foods such as fruit, vegetables, beans, and whole grains, and are the life force for probiotics influencing other organs and systems in the body, helping to keep blood sugar and cholesterol levels within the normal range. Humans lack the ability to break down certain carbohydrates and fibre, so the microbes in your gut do the job for you.

Your source of prebiotics

Today's busy lifestyles means many of us aren't eating enough food with good sources of prebiotics. Ideally, your body needs a combination of prebiotics and probiotics, which is why taking supplements is so important. Probiotics stimulate the growth and activity of the good bacteria in your digestive tract - the same bacteria that has been taken from foods or supplements. A rich source of good bacteria is found in fermented food such as yogurt and kefir, where they convert sugar and carbohydrates into acids. They all have a part to play in enhancing the body's immune response control and are believed to have a positive effect on mood.

Check out our Microbiotic Max (p61) for gut health support

Microbiotic Max

Formulated to offer you a combination of probiotics and prebiotic fibre, delivering 2 billion live bacteria (CFU) per serving. It contains no sweeteners, colours or preservatives and doesn't need refrigeration, making it ideal to take wherever you go.

Mineral Addition

When you sweat, you lose important minerals like sodium, chloride and potassium. Often called electrolytes, they are essential for your body. Sports drinks may enhance your liquid consumption, and provide magnesium which contributes to electrolyte balance during exercise. Try Herbalife 24 Hydrate, a caloriefree electrolyte drink, or Herbalife 24 LiftOff Max containing caffeine and vitamins B6, B12 and C which contribute to a reduction in tiredness and fatigue.

Create a home spa day

Relax into a bubble bath

Light a candle or two and add some music while you run a bath dropping in a splash of your favourite sulphate-free fragranced bubble bath or oil – and submerge into relaxation. A warm soak relieves muscle tension, loosens pores and clears a cluttered mind.

No bath tub? A warm steamy shower can work just as well. Try a blast of cold water after a warm shower, and see how it firms up the skin!

Don't forget your hair

Indulge damaged, dry or frizzy hair too. Pick up the right conditioner for your hair type and apply to your ends while you soak, so it has the time to really moisturise and nourish.

Pamper your face

With a good face mask, you can get the same results that you do in a spa, and leaving it on while you soak, allows the heat and steam to help loosen up clogged pores. Try a mask containing bentonite clay for its amazing skin toning and absorbing properties.

Moisturise from head to toe

Applying a hydrating moisturiser while your skin is still damp will really seal in moisture for more youthful looking skin that feels silky soft. Taking time out to take care of you is invaluable, whether it's a soothing bubble bath, a face mask, reading a book or relaxing for a few minutes with a cup of tea.

Protein power

Here's the thing

Proteins are made up of amino acids the main building blocks of our muscles, bones, skin, tissues, and organs. During digestion, our body breaks down protein into individual amino acids to create new proteins – so it's important to keep our daily intake at the right levels.

Boosts metabolism

Did you know your body uses more energy to digest protein compared to carbohydrates? So to get your metabolism working harder, it makes sense to ensure you're consuming the optimum amount of protein in your daily diet. Protein also helps to maintain muscle mass, and as muscle tissue needs to burn energy to perform their daily task of contracting and relaxing, this also is key in boosting your metabolism.

Supports muscle recovery and growth

Regular exercise and the right protein intake contributes to muscle growth. High-quality proteins containing every essential amino acid are found in animal-based protein foods such as lean poultry, beef, fish, dairy and whole eggs, and for a vegan diet from a combination of beans, lentils, whole grain and soy-based tofu.

Finding your protein

Protein shakes and supplements can help to boost your protein levels, and whether you opt for whey protein or plant-based protein, both can contribute to muscle growth.

In addition to a balanced diet, protein shakes are a convenient option for individuals and athletes always on the go.
